I strongly urge you to protect and preserve the greater sage grouse, now confined mostly to northwest Colorado. By preserving greater sage grouse habitat, we preserve 350 other species, including elk and deer. This beautiful and iconic species should be protected for future generations to enjoy. These birds are sensitive to any disturbances to their habitat—as is any animal species. They must be protected from development, encroachment and deforestation, and especially from oil and gas development. We need to at least protect the most important areas of habitat to at least have corridors in between areas for them to be able to pass back and forth from different areas (or habitats). Please protect the sage grouse for future generations to come!

Thank-you very much.

Sincerely
