To Whom It May Concern,

The Bureau of Land Management should ban drilling for petroleum on the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

Why?

First, the US already has a large domestic surplus of petroleum. Second, multiple species of animals (such as caribou and polar bears), some of them endangered, live in the refuge. Third, burning petroleum-based fossil fuels increase the threat of climate change. Fourth, 70 percent of American voters oppose petroleum drilling in the refuge:<http://climatecommunication.yale.edu/publications/americans-oppose-drilling-arctic-national-wildlife-refuge/>.

Thanks for your consideration of my view!

Sincerely,

Mark Guarino
