To the Bureau of Land Management:

I strongly believe that the rush to sell of the public lands in the AWRN is a hasty and irreversible decision once the damage is done. What's more it has been proven that less than 4% of oil & gas revenue could be reaped from the Refuge. It doesn't seem like the cost to the environment and wildlife habitat is worth it. These lands are our national heritage and should be preserved for generations to come. I had the privilege and good fortune of visiting the area about 10 years and to this day it is the most stunning geographical area I've ever seen. Please don't give or sell it away without listening to the public and doing a full environmental review . This is our history and a large piece of what makes our country great. Thank you !
