Hello,

I am commenting today to urge you to consider the irreplaceable value of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and the Arctic coastal plain. Any type of resource extraction from these areas would cause harm to the region that cannot be undone. The Alaskan Arctic holds wildlife and ecological value unmatched in all of the rest of our country and in very few places in the entire world. Oil and gas development would forever tarnish a pristine environment that is precious and should remain as birthright to future generations.

I will reiterate once more, the arctic is precious and irreplaceable. Please do not make short sighted decisions that will erase the beauty and value of wild and open space.
