When the choice is between Orcas and other wildlife and oil and gas that has the potential to cause great harm to flora and fauna I vote for the flora and fauna. AND, for helping all of us learn to be more chary of how we use the oil and gas resources we currently have readily available. We could use less and use what we have more efficiently and, in the process, avoid damaging the environment.

Yes, I do think that conservation and reducing use of oil and gas should be part of the conversation about finding those resources. What is the true need for the resources? Are we doing the best we can to stretch what we are using as far as possible? That's the new frontier we should be exploring.

Thank you,
