

CoastalPlain_EIS, BLM_AK <blm_ak_coastalplain_eis@blm.gov>

[EXTERNAL] about the Arctic

1 message

Terri <terrishcj@aol.com>

Fri, May 4, 2018 at 1:59 PM

To: blm_ak_coastalplain_EIS@blm.gov

I thought capitalism included making smart economic decisions for the future. Exploring for fossil fuels in the Arctic belies that thought.

Other countries are investing in renewable energy. Few countries are blind to the possibilities of using wind, sun and other means to save money and the environment. The only losers are big corporations unable to see the future. But here's their opportunity not to waste money. Since their infrastructure is not yet there, they shouldn't waste money and resources by building it. Surprising numbers of people who are suffering from, or aware of the suffering of others from, the dangers and destruction that comes with fossil fuels are switching to renewables.

Look to the future. Leave the Arctic alone.

Sincerely,

T. MacKenzie

7040 N. Sheridan Road #503
Chicago, IL 60626