I've written many comments before to the BLM. It's not clear that any have had even one iota of impact. Bears Ears, Escalante, Dinosaur Nat Monument, ... regardless of what I and the majority of Americans say, the BLM goes ahead with plans to sell, drill, and develop. So I feel and see that these comments are a formality and a useless activity, thus I'll keep this brief:

I'm utterly apposed to any industrialization of the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. We don't need the oil, it'll be detrimental to the culture of the indigenous people as well as the well being of hundreds of species of birds, mammals, and fish. For what purpose? So Alaska's can skip paying their fair share of taxes? So Americans can keep driving fuel inefficient trucks and not bothering to insulate their homes?

Keep it intact and free from any oil development. There is no way to get the oil out without wrecking the culture and environment of the Arctic.
