BLM,

The loss of tourism for Alaska would be devastating to their economy. An oil spill, which has a likeliness of 70% would also have deadly impacts on all the endangered species living in the waters and coastal plains of the refuge and also cost Alaskans their economy. Oil leasing licenses of course would bring money to the state but this is far from the impact of an oil spill, also impacting the citizens of Alaska's property value and the deterrent of others coming to live there. 80% of US citizens are opposed, primarily due to the environmental Impacts. Clean renewable energy is the future for America, it will create jobs and it will not destroy one of the last protected and untouched places in our country. I am totally opposed.
