Dear BLM Officials:

I am writing as a private citizen. I am firmly opposed to relaxing rules on oil drilling in the ANWR. The overarching reason is that the world is moving beyond the fossil fuel economy, and further drilling damages the whole environment while postponing the process of change.

We have a president whose election was tainted by scandal and his administration is filled with incompetent and corrupt appointees. Now is not the time to rush into changes in rules that affect us all so profoundly.

Further, the proposed drilling will not even help the problems it has been proposed to solve. It will not provide very much oil (so won't do much for U. S. energy independence), and it can't lower prices because OPEC has such a hold on the price of crude. In addition, it will do terrible damage to land that has been so far preserved.

Please consider these concerns and make the decision to retain protections in the ANWR.

Thank you,
Richard Snyder
