Interior Department Bureau of Land Management,

PLEASE do not auction off the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge for oil and gas development. The bottom line is that if we continue to develop more fossil fuel resources, we will not transition to renewable energy quickly enough to save our grandchildren's lives. The world's best scientists anticipate that unless we move away from fossil fuel use much more quickly than we are doing, we will have a climate catastrophe within a Century. At this point, it is not clear whether this would make life miserable, or unsurvivable. So please ask yourself if you care enough to displease a few fossil fuel corporations, in order to safeguard your grandchildren's lives.
