The idea of opening a wildlife refuge to oil and gas drilling is completely antithetical to the function of such a refuge which is to preserve and protect animal species. Many of the animals inhabiting ANWR are under threat in other areas and are greatly in need of the protection afforded by the refuge.

That the Trump administration should propose the ultimate destruction of ANWR by pushing to open it to fossil fuel exploration and drilling is absolutely horrifying. In addition, in this era of manmade climate change and warming, we need to be moving away from fossil fuels, not drilling for even more of them. ANWR must be left unspoiled and must be spared the depredations of fossil fuel development.

Thank you, Betty Trentlyon
