

CoastalPlain_EIS, BLM_AK &lt;blm_ak_coastalplain_eis@blm.gov&gt;

---

[EXTERNAL] Irreversible damage for short-term gain1 message

---

Christopher Bryant <info@actionnetwork.org>

Fri, May 25, 2018 at 9:23 AM

Reply-To: stormbird@gmail.com

To: blm_ak_coastalplain_EIS@blm.gov

Ryan Zinke,

By now, it should be obvious even to odious Republicans officials who knowingly trade my daughter's future for cash that fossil fuels are a dead end whose demise can come messily and badly or swiftly with mercy.

In light of worldwide mountains of evidence that we are the cause for the precipitous rise in greenhouse gasses, and as a U.S. citizen, I and my family demand that you reject the proposal to open the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to drilling.

Burning of the oil and gas produced from the coastal plain WILL accelerate global warming and thus WILL threaten people across the globe. Additionally, drilling WILL have permanent impacts on the refuge's wildlife as well as the Gwich'in who rely upon its caribou herd (that this people does not believe in our vacuous American death culture should not automatically mean they get to suffer for it).

Reject this short-sighted proposal.

Christopher Bryant

stormbird@gmail.com

17753 NE 114th Court

Redmond, Washington 98052