A drilling mandate in the Arctic Refuge is a modern day imperialistic action cementing this country's legacy as a power that has always held the human rights, beliefs and needs of this continent's indigenous peoples in very low regard. Therefore, I am compelled to express my opposition to drilling in the Artic Wildlife Refuge; for what is at stake is more than the environment of a remote wilderness, but the well being of one of the few remaining subsistence cultures. Respecting their traditional lifeways can neither negate, nor gloss over the history of Native American decimation and suffering on this continent, yet it would still be a step in the right direction regarding US government relations with Native peoples.
