TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am not writing as a "bleeding heart liberal" but just a nature lover and one that wants to protect at least some of our national lands from progress and destruction. ANWR falls into that category.

Drilling in the ANWR is such a senseless proposition. With all the discoveries within recent years, in our country of massive oil and gas reserves, the idea of drilling in the ANWR is excessive and unnecessary. We have all the oil and gas we will ever need, I believe more than anywhere else on earth. To disrupt the natural beauty and wildlife and fauna in this area is at the very least immoral and litigious.

My hope is that people who care about ANWR (even conservatives like me) make their feelings known and that the "powers that be" enter into some long hard thinking and soul searching before the digging and destruction begins.

I would like to visit this area in my lifetime or at least know that it is protected from human predators and not being exploited by a greedy few. All our citizens, the world, my grandchildren and yours can only benefit from using common sense and good judgement regarding this very crucial decision about ANWR.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
