to: Bureau of Land Management,

Hello, my name is Carl-Anne Pugliese, and am an educator in the environmental field. I recently viewed the film The Sacred Place Where Life Begins: Gwich'in Women Speak by Miho Aida. This film highlights the native Gwich'in people and their connection to the land in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. The people in the ANWR need the Caribou to survive and to continue their cultural traditions. I urge you to protect the coastal plain from drilling at all costs. By protecting this place you will also protect the people who have called this place home. Thank you for working on behalf of American people instead of corporations and money.

Sincerely,
Carl-Anne Pugliese
