Dear BLM:

I urge you to oppose any effort to open the coastal plain in the ANWR to oil and gas exploration. I've been on the coastal plain, and it constitutes one of my fondest memories of the natural world.

The beauty of the landscape and the importance of the ecosystem to the many animal species and native human populations should inspire us to stewardship of this irreplaceable region of the world. Opening the ANWR to oil and gas exploration, combined with global warming, will cause irreparable harm to resident animal and humans alike.

We are in the midst of transitioning to renewable energy and don't need to despoil and desecrate such a unique and important ecosystem. I urge you to preserve the ANWR for current and future generations!

Sincerely,
William Buss
