Dear Sir/Madam,

I kindly ask you to stop a second and consider the following: imagine a world without bears, without steppe grass, without caribou birds and without clear waters. Is that a world you want to live in? And your children? And grand-children?

Surely, you do not. I know the stakes are high, I know the potential economic value gained trumps many other considerations. Except, does it really?

I, and many other citizens you share this beautiful planet with, are asking you to reconsider.

We are dependent on fuel, but more than that, we are dependent on nature. Nature is life.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best wishes,
Alexandra Brandt Corstius
