

CoastalPlain_EIS, BLM_AK <blm_ak_coastalplain_eis@blm.gov>

[EXTERNAL] Leave the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge alone, for goodness' sake!1 message

Emily DeHuff <Emily_DeHuff_AB68@everyactioncustom.com>

Wed, Apr 25, 2018 at 5:04 PM

Reply-To: Emily_DeHuff_AB68@post.harvard.edu

To: blm_ak_coastalplain_EIS@blm.gov

Dear Bureau of Land Managment,

I don't know whether you're a fan of the TV show "Two and a Half Men" (one of my guilty pleasures), but if you are, you'll remember the scene in which Jake (maybe eleven years old) wants to wear his tuxedo to the dinner table the night before his mom's second wedding.

He is told no, he has to change, because they're having spaghetti and he's bound to get some on his shirtfront, and they don't have time to get it cleaned.

"No, I won't, I'll be careful," he insists. So his dad relents and lets him wear his tuxedo to the table (while every viewer is screaming at the TV "You fool!")

Next scene: "Oops," says Jake, as he drops a glob of spaghetti sauce on his white shirtfront.

I think of that scene every time an oil company says "We won't spill any oil, honest!"

Are we as a country no wiser than Jake's feckless dad?

Sincerely,

Emily DeHuff

Newport, OR 97365

Emily_DeHuff_AB68@post.harvard.edu