As a Certified Fisheries Scientist with the American Fisheries Society; I am opposed to any effort to impact the Arctic Refuge with oil and gas exploration. We are seeing an incredible decline in salmon populations on the West Coast of North America. Drilling in the Arctic Refuge will only add to the decline of water quality and all living life that depends on clean habitat and uncontaminated rivers.

There is no justification for extracting oil and gas from this sensitive site when there is a surplus of oil and gas with continued decline in the use of these products.

Thanks for accepting my comments to the EIS.
