Dear Project Coordinator Nicole Hayes,

We are vehemently opposed to opening up the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge for oil & gas drilling; this region is such a critical habitat for so many species of wildlife such as caribou, polar bears & migratory birds. We also understand that there is already a massive surplus of oil & gas leases & permits & our nation is moving in the direction of more clean energy sources. The potential for irrevocable damage to this pristine & sensitive area would be extremely high. We strongly believe that opening up the ANWR for drilling is not only unnecessary but also too risky!

Thank you for listening!

Sincerely,
