

CoastalPlain_EIS, BLM_AK <blm_ak_coastalplain_eis@blm.gov>

[EXTERNAL] Regarding the Alaska Arctic

1 message

susanna.doma@gmail.com <susanna.doma@gmail.com>

Tue, Jun 5, 2018 at 3:02 PM

To: blm_ak_coastalplain_EIS@blm.gov

Dear U.S. Bureau of Land Management,

The calving grounds of the Porcupine Caribou herd that migrates between Canada and Alaska belong to the Coastal Plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

Oil and gas drilling would have disastrous effects on the health of the herd and the Gwich'in communities of Canada and Alaska that rely on it for their culture and subsistence.

The importance of the Arctic Refuge transcends borders with many species crossing back and forth into Canada. It is therefore critical that Canadian interests be included within the scope of this environmental review.

Thank you for thinking of the survival future generations of humans (our Children) and animals on this Earth.

Susanna Doma

Susanna Doma,
L1V 5G1