Dear Bureau of Land Management,

Please reconsider your plans for drilling for gas and oil in the Arctic Refuge. The roads, building and inevitable spills will damage one of the most pristine places on the earth.

Less than half of the federal land under lease is currently producing. There is no need to begin this activity to Alaska at this time. There is a surplus of oil and gas leases. Let the oil and gas companies continue to frack in the lower 48, but PLEASE save this special wild place, with all it's wonderful wildlife for future generations to enjoy.

Thanks for your consideration.

Christine Fergen
