Dear Bureau of Land Management,

Trump's plan to fast-track drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is shortsighted and possibly illegal. In a time when we have so little wild land remaining, we should preserve every bit that we can, not develop it so we can pad the pockets of oil execs and save a few cents on a gallon of gas. The rushed timeline will not allow for the full analysis required under the law and which is necessary to meet the Department's obligations to responsibly steward one of the crown jewels of the nation's National Wildlife Refuge System. Hopefully, groups with more moral character than you will litigate this decision.

The Refuge should remain a place in America's Arctic for birds and wildlife seeking refuge from the pressures of climate change and development. The science clearly indicates that an oil and gas program does not belong in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

Sincerely,

Jeff Lonn
