Dear BLM employee and whomever it concerns,

I am writing in regard to our public lands being opened up to oil and gas, in this instance specifically The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. Refuge by Merriam-Websters definition "shelter or protection from danger or distress, a place that provides shelter or protection, something to which one has recourse in difficulty". I feel that violating The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge for a non renewable resource is counter to the definition of refuge! Roosevelt put protections in place, these protections should not flip flop back and forth with the winds of political extremes. The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge should be held in trust for the people and as a true refuge. I am part of public and wanted to take the time to comment on my concerns for our public lands. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely

Amber Lopez
