Dear Ms. Hayes,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on opening the Arctic Refuge to oil and gas development.

I am a volunteer backpacking guide and have made many trips into the Arctic Refuge and on the coastal plain. This issue is extremely important to me and to the future health of our nation.

This is an area of unprecedented beauty, and it is the only wild place left in our country.

Indigenous people need this wilderness, the animals need this wilderness, Americans need this wilderness.

In this fragile environment (1002 Area), oil and gas development will take away my and my fellow American's last unspoiled wilderness legacy.

Preservation, rather than exploitation, is better for all Americans.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Janet Cerretani
