Dear Nicole,

My name is Jennine Williamson. I have lived in Alaska for the past 40 years, first on the North Slope before moving to the Interior.

I love Alaska. I love the wild of Alaska. I am disheartened by the relentless attempts to open the Coastal Plain/ANWR to oil drilling. I don't understand the push to drill baby drill...especially in the last untouched bits of our planet. We will have nothing left of what is wild by the time the extraction industries are done with it.

I am not articulate. But I do know I oppose these plans. I oppose this continuing reliance of fossil fuels esp. when there are alternatives. As a country we need to pursue those other options, not keep despoiling what little wilderness left to us.

Thank you,

Jennine Williamson
