

Mickey Allen
1444 Sunway -
Fairbanks Alaska
99709

POSTAL SERVICE
MAIL ROOM AK-954

2019 FEB -6 AM 10:46

RECEIVED

COASTAL Plain Oil and GAS
EIS
222 West Seventh AV. Ste #13
Anchorage, Alaska 99513

99513-750413

ALASKA FRONTIER
595-997
05 FEB 2019 PM 11

Willy Allen
149 Sunway -
Fairbanks, AK-99709

Coastal Plain Coy & GAs - 222 West Seventh Ave
Stop # 13 -
Anchorage, Alaska 99513

To Whom it May Concern:

I have many years of experience working up north in Alaska - started back in 1976 - fresh out of the Army -

The people are worried that some development is going to disrupt the animals in the area - The answer is "it won't" - the roads are designed to go around the ponds and not through them - I have seen thousands of birds nesting and raising the young - they build roads to go around the denuded up Polar Bears - I have seen this -

I have seen thousands of Caribou come right onto the roads - lay down and rest to get away from the mosquitoes - Young ones and all - they pay no attention to us -

There was a herd of Caribou between punkah and Barrow that stayed around and the last information I got was that the herd was increasing - if there is an impact then it has got to be from the Village from Noigait -

I was involved with the first Generator installed in Noigait for Electricity -

Most of the people that protest the actions concerning ANWR have never worked up there -

So in my opinion - They don't know what they are talking about ~

The activity in ANWR is not going to disrupt the movements of the Caribou - Caribou will go where they want and not wait for decisions from the human species -

My good friend from Arctic Village is a strong opponent of ANWR but to my knowledge she has never worked up north -

I have another friend from Kaktovik - He is against ANWR but he drives a good snow machine that burns gasoline - he has electricity supplied with diesel fuel - He has a rice out board that burns gasoline - and runs tourists around with a machine that burns fossil fuel -

IN KAKTOVIK - the last info I got was that it is a 50-50 split for ANWR -

The plan for ANWR is not right in the middle - it is on the edge from the info I got ~ And the foot print is so small that it is insignificant ~ $\frac{1}{10}$ & $\frac{1}{100}$ that is very very small -

Incidentally - I installed the first Caterpillar gen sets in KAKTOVIK - there were 3 of the sets ~ So I know what I am talking about also ~ I am an Alaskan statue - born and raised in Alaska - at one time I had to go to Arctic Village - To restore electricity due to a blown engine - it was 55 below - at that time - the Village was surrounded by thousands of caribou ~ All winter long - that is where they migrated to from the arctic slope - Did the snow machines, & power house and air planes and human activity disrupt them? Looks to me - like it did not -

I wanted to attend your gathering here in Fairbanks but I missed it - I am retired now and don't pay much attention to time -

I realize that we have global warming - Many say it caused by fossil fuels - But humans are greedy - they keep on building bigger ships & bigger and faster air planes faster snow machines etc etc - I too am greedy - I worked up north for Big pay checks - To help get the oil out of the ground -

So now ~ the Alaskan people who are against ANWR are probably the first in line to snatch up the oil dividend check book and the first to complain when this amount shrinks a bit -

So now - I bid you fare well and I do support ANWR development

Wickey Allen A genuine Alaskan Indian and oil field worker - NAAV Vet and Vet Incidentally - I am not a dumb INDIAN - I am college educated -
- 907 479 5142 if you want more info -