Comments:

BLM managing this process under the department of the interior who also oversees the Bureau of Indian Affairs is in my opinion NOT transparent enough to justify this process being legitimized in the eyes of Native communities. This project is just one more example of selling off precious items to pay the bills. Our children and our children's children will never enjoy ANWR if we allow fossil fuel interests to rape the Landside for oil. This land was protected for a reason and as such should be guaranteed in perpetuity. 100 years from now our country will have nothing left if we continue to allow Big money to change the rules in place to protect our land.

Cambo hunting is what not only sustains my family when successful but also allows me an annual opportunity to return to my roots as a hunter and enjoy the landscape that our great nation has to offer.

Disturbing this resource has already occurred and cannot be undone, allowing continued disruption of migration corridors and traveling herds has widespread ramifications for the entire states residents.

Destroying the north slope for oil will make <sup>future</sup> generations pay for the sins of those in positions to benefit financially now. No amount of money will be able to undo what has already occurred and allowing another phase of development is an unconscionable act. I vote with ALTERNATIVE A
